

Brabus T65 RS Vanish

Brabus have added more black to the AMG SL65 Black for a client that obviously live by the creed that too much of a good thing is never enough.

With 800 hp (788 bhp) / 588 kW and 811 lb-ft of torque, electronically limited from the 1,047 unrestricted, the Vanish is probably the most aptly named car ever. To achieve the prodigious figures Brabus take the already over the top SL65 V12 powerplant and add their own twin turbo system and proprietary exhaust manifolds with integrated turbine housings. Underneath that odd shaped bonnet bulge sits four large intercoolers. Capping off the physical engine modes is a BRABUS stainless-steel high-performance exhaust system with free-flow metal catalyts.

In Vanish guise the SL65 weighs in at 1,795 kilograms (3,957 lbs.). The land bound equivalent of an F117 can reach 100 km/h (62 mph) in just 3.6 seconds, with 200 km/h (124 mph) coming in under the magical 10 seconds at 9.8. Top speed is just over 330 km/h (206 mph) however due to tyre limitations Brabus electronically limit it to 320 km/h (200 mph).

This is a one-off as the plaque on the console states, and the interior treatment is very individual to say the least. If you do have an SL65 in your garage that is just not up to your standards you can
